"Trauma and EMDR Therapy" is being offered as an elective once again this spring to MSW students in their Advanced Practice year. EMDR is a clinical therapy so this elective is only offered to advanced clinical students.

The EMDRIA Approved training course is offered online to both residential and online MSW students. The elective includes 20 hours of teaching, 20 hours of practicum where students learn to utilize EMDR therapy, and 10 hours of consultation on use and application of EMDR. Rather than having traditional homework assignments such as papers or presentations, the course includes 3 group homework practice and consultation sessions which will meet outside of the regular class night. These extra sessions are scheduled ahead of time with more than one option to help work around your schedule. The class grade is based in large part based on your participation. You will receive expert consultation as you learn how to implement EMDR with your clients in practice.

We hope you will register and experience the wonder and impact of EMDR therapy for yourself, your career and understanding of trauma, and your future clients. You will be joined in the course by several community practitioners who are taking the training as well.

When: Spring Trimester beginning January 4 and ending by April 19, 2027 on Monday evenings from 5:30-8:15
